School lunch prices to increase

Taylor County to increase prices, Campbellsville to discuss prices next month

CALEN MCKINNEY
reporter@cknj.com

When students head back to school in August, they could have to pay a bit more for their breakfast and lunch.

At Taylor County schools, those who qualify for reduced lunches won't have to pay for them at all.

At last week's regular Taylor County Board of Education meeting, Food Service Director Gertie Graves told members she has tried to keep lunch prices affordable, and remembers only one increase in lunch prices during her time at the District.

However, Graves, who will retire on Friday, said an increase is necessary for the upcoming school year.

Graves said all school districts in the state must abide by new paid lunch equity requirements included in the Healthy, Hungry-Free Kids Act of 2010.

In the new requirements, the average cost of paid lunches is compared to the federal reimbursement for free and reduced lunches. If the comparison doesn't meet an average price, the school isn't compliant with the regulations.

At Taylor County School System, Graves said, those who pay for their lunch at Taylor County Elementary School pay $1.50. At Taylor County middle and high schools, students pay $1.75.

Graves said the District receives 26 cents in federal reimbursement for paid lunches,

Curry leaving Green River Ministries

Rosalind Strong-Porter will replace her as executive director

CALEN MCKINNEY
reporter@cknj.com

She has spent the last six years helping people in Taylor County. Now, she's going to help people in Hardin County.

Misty Curry, executive director of Green River Ministries, has resigned her post for a job in Elizabethtown. Rosalind Strong-Porter, a GRM housing counselor, will step into Curry's position. Located on Stockyard Street, the Green River Ministries' "one-stop shop" building houses GRM staff and the local homeless shelter, as well as the crisis relief center, Campbellsville/Taylor County Habitat for Humanity, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Christian Women's Job Corps and the Campbellsville Lions Club.

Dan Durham, chairman of the GRM Board of Directors, said an executive committee performed a region-wide search for Curry's replacement. He said several people applied for Curry's position and the Board interviewed a few candidates.

He said the Board was looking for someone who could fulfill all of GRM's needs, which include administering grants to managing a homeless shelter and performing a plethora of duties in between.

"That job entails a lot," Durham said. "[They] wear a lot of hats in that position."

Schuhmann logs 1 million safe miles for Postal Service

Only two other local Postal Service workers have reached this milestone

BILLY HICKS
news@cknj.com

U.S. Postal Service worker Richard Schuhmann has accomplished a feat few people can boast. Last month, Schuhmann joined the National Safety Council's Million Mile Club, which requires members to work 30 years or drive one million miles without an at-fault accident. He is the third postal worker from Campbellsville to achieve this mark.

"I never thought when I started in 1982 that I'd make it to this mark," said Schuhmann, a 30-year employee of the USPS.

Schuhmann said one reason he accomplished this feat is because of changes to the county roads.

"The roads are much better in Taylor County now than when I started, and that helps a lot," he said. "There are also fewer gravel roads than there used to be."

Schuhmann credits his accident-free record to making a conscientious check of all safety issues at all times.

"You have to make a mental note of it every day," he said. "It's something you have to work at. I make sure the drivers can see my turn signals, I think about what I do before I do it, and years of training help, too."

Grand jury indicts 15

Man indicted for alleged assault, sex crimes, accused murderer allegedly assaults deputy

CALEN MCKINNEY
reporter@cknj.com

The Campbellsville man who allegedly assaulted a Taylor County Sheriff's deputy after a standoff has been indicted on assault and sex crime charges.

Kenneth L. Agee, 46, of 665 W. Martin Road, was indicted last Tuesday by a Taylor County grand jury. Agee was charged with third-degree assault, attempted first-degree unlawful transaction with a minor younger than 16, promoting a sexual performance by a minor younger than 16, resisting arrest and being a first-degree persistent felony offender.

According to a Taylor County Sheriff's Office report, deputies and Kentucky State Probation and Parole officers responded to Agee's home on May 9 to investigate a possible parole violation and possible crimes committed against a child.

The report states that, while attempting to arrest Agee, he fled to a back room, retrieved a metal bat and a struggle ensued. During the struggle, Agee allegedly struck a Taylor County Sheriff's deputy twice, though he wasn't injured.

A brief standoff occurred, the report states, and sheriff's deputies and Campbellsville Police ultimately took Agee into custody after using non-lethal weapons.

The report states that the charges against Agee stem from an investigation that revealed he allegedly directed a 12-year-old girl to perform illegal sexual acts and then attempted to pay her for the acts.

Agee is a registered sex offender. According to the registry, he is a 10-year registrant that committed first-degree sexual abuse.

Bond was set at $100,000 cash and he was ordered to not have contact with the alleged victims.

If convicted, Agee could be sentenced to as much as 35 years in prison. The charge of being a persistent felony offender could increase any sentence he might receive.

Jesse Durham

Jesse Durham, 20, of 102 Eads St., is currently housed at the Taylor County Detention Center awaiting trial on a first-degree murder charge.

AGEE

Records state that on May 13, Durham refused to be escorted out of his cell and then struck Deputy Daniel Miller on his face. Durham was charged with third-degree assault and being a second-degree persistent felony offender.

Bond was set at $150,000 cash. If convicted, Durham could be sentenced to as much as five years in prison. The charge of being a persistent felony offender could increase any sentence he might receive.

Local man receives probation for sex crime

Will register as sex offender for 20 years

CALEN MCKINNEY
reporter@cknj.com

A Campbellsville man has been sentenced to probation after pleading guilty to sexually abusing a 6-year-old girl.

Nathan Jay Bradshaw, 24, of 420 Kenny St., was indicted last August by a Taylor County grand jury and charged with first-degree sexual abuse of a girl younger than 12 and being a second-degree persistent felony offender.

Bradshaw appeared before Taylor Circuit Court Judge Dan Kelly in March and entered a guilty plea to first-degree sexual abuse. The persistent felony offender charge was dismissed.

On Tuesday, Bradshaw appeared before Kelly for sentencing. Bradshaw was sentenced to five years' probation and ordered to register as a sex offender for 20 years and to not have contact with the victim or the victim's family. Bradshaw's probation sentence will be served after he completes an additional probation sentence.

A diversion Bradshaw received in another criminal case was voided in March after he pleaded guilty to the sexual abuse charge. In the earlier case, Bradshaw pleaded guilty in September 2007 to receiving more than $300 in stolen property.

On Tuesday, Bradshaw was sentenced to five years' probation for violating the terms of his diversion. In all, Bradshaw will serve 10 years' probation.

Bradshaw was also ordered to pay a $1,000 fine.

Court records state that Bradshaw's case was settled during a mediation conference on Friday, March 2.

BRADSHAW

According to court records, Bradshaw was accused of touching the girl's vagina in May 2011.

Records state that the girl told investigators that Bradshaw told her not to tell anyone. Campbellsville Police Officer Charlie Houk and Campbellsville Police Detective Brian Morgan investigated.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney John Miller, the prosecutor in the case, could not be reached before press time to comment on the case.

If convicted by a jury, Bradshaw could have been sentenced to as much as 10 years in prison. Court records also list Bradshaw's address as 117 Phillips Drive in Campbellsville.

ACCENT RELAY FOR LIFE

photos/CALEN McKINNEY

Clockwise from top left, luminaries purchased in honor of those fighting cancer or who have died of cancer glow after dark on Friday night. Cancer survivors smile together after they greet the crowd. Survivors make their way around the track. Survivors, wearing matching T-shirts, ban together to take the first lap of the night. As of Friday night, the local Relay for Life effort had raised $29,000. The goal is $40,000.

Campbellsville High School's Dra Thornton (4) heads around right end for a big gainer in an Eagle game last season. CHS starts the 2012 campaign on Friday Aug. 17 vs. Russell County in the fourth annual Forcht Bank Bowl at Campbellsville University.

Thornton competes at Super Combine

Campbellsville High School senior-to-be Dra Thornton competed in the Blue-Grey National Super Combine over the weekend at the Pro Football Hall of Fame Stadium in Canton, Ohio. Thornton, a running back/linebacker, was selected to the field of 200 elite prospects based on his performance at an earlier regional combine. The latest combine will serve as a pool to select a North and South squad to compete in the first annual Blue-grey National All Star Game on Jan. 12, 2013 at Raymond James Stadium, the home of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the NFL. The game will be televised on Fox Sports. Super combine prospects will comprise 75 percent of each team. Last year, of the 200 prospects at the Super Combine, 181 ended up signing a college football scholarship.

Cox's numbers improving at Memphis

Former Campbellsville and Taylor County baseball standout Zack Cox, who won Mr. Baseball honors at Pleasure Ridge Park before two solid seasons at the University of Arkansas, is picking up his numbers with Memphis in the Class AAA Pacific Coast League.

Cox, who missed 12 days after being hit in the head by a pitch on May 30, was hitting .209 through the Red-birds' first 50 games. However, since his return, the Cardinals' top pick in the 2010 draft, has hit .333 (9-27) with three doubles, a home run, six RBI and six runs in nine games through Thursday tilts. Cox's closest trip to Kentucky, other than home games in Memphis, will be a four-game trip to Nashville Tuesday, July 24 through Friday July 27 (all 8:05 ET starts) and on Friday, Aug. 31 through Monday, Sept. 3 (8:05 game on Friday, 7:35 on Saturday and Sunday and 1:05 on Monday. Cox hit .306 last season while playing 42 games at Palm Beach in the Class A Florida State League and 93 games at Springfield in the Class AA Texas League.

CU hoop teams to play conference games in November
Although the schedules have not been officially released, Campbellsville University's men's and women's basketball teams will play 20 games against their 10 Mid-South Conference foes. The league slate begins on Thursday, Nov. 15 and the Tigers and Lady Tigers will play five conference games before Christmas. Another odd twist in the schedule has the CU squad visiting close-by rival Lindsey Wilson College on Monday, Feb. 25 with the Mid-South Conference Tournament set to begin four days later on Friday, March 1 in Frankfort.

The CU men open their season with an exhibition game at Western Kentucky University on Saturday, Oct. 27. Regular-season play begins on Monday, Nov. 5 at Brescia before opening the home portion of Tiger schedule on Monday, Nov. 12 vs. Indiana University-Northwest. The Lady Tigers begin play on Friday, Nov. 2 at home vs. Miami-Middletown.

which means it receives $1.76 and $2.01 in revenue from paid lunches at the elementary and middle and high schools, respectively.

Students who qualify for reduced lunches pay 40 cents, she said, and the District reimburses $2.37 in federal reimbursement for a total of $2.77 in revenue.

For those who receive free lunches, Graves said, the District receives $2.77 in federal reimbursement.

She said those figures mean that the District receives $2.77 in revenue from reduced and free lunch students and only $1.76 or $2.01 in revenue from those who pay full price for their lunches.

Graves said Districts that charge less than $2.51 for paid lunches are required to adjust their average lunch prices to bridge the gap in revenue between paid and reduced and free lunches or they could lose federal funding.

"They're in essence making us raise the price," she said.

Graves presented Board members with a survey of local school lunch prices, to which Taylor County was one of the lowest.

She said the District received a waiver for last school year so it did not have to abide by the paid lunch equity requirements. However, she said, the District must comply for the 2012-2013 school year.

When using a provided formula, the District could raise its lunch prices a dime each, going to $1.60 at the elementary school and $1.85 at the middle and high schools, and be compliant.

"Reluctantly, I recommend that we increase prices," Graves said. Superintendent Roger Cook said the District will lose $69,000 in federal funding per month if it doesn't comply with paid lunch equity standards. The increased prices will still keep the District at one of the lowest in the area.

"It's what we have to do."

Board member Lilian Clark made a motion to approve the increases, which Jim Cheatham seconded and was unanimously approved.

To help with the increase, Graves said, the District has the option this upcoming school year to waive the cost for reduced lunches. She said this might encourage some parents to see if their children qualify for reduced lunch. Cook said that would be beneficial.

"It costs the District money when they don't apply," he said.

Graves said she doesn't know if the District will be able to waive reduced lunch fees for more than one school year, so she believes it should take advantage while the option is there.

According to Graves, enrollment at the Taylor County School System last school year was 2,690 students. Of those, 262, or 9.74 percent, qualified for reduced-cost lunches. Nearly 48 percent, or 1,283 students, received free lunches.

In all, 57 percent of Taylor County's students received free or reduced lunches.

Campbellsville Independent Superintendent Mike Deaton was out of town and couldn't be reached before press time.

Pat Hall, chair of the Campbellsville School Board, and Jeff Richardson, food services director, say school lunch prices for the Campbellsville District will be discussed at next month's meeting, which is open to the public.

Principal Selection

Cook said the search to replace former TCES Principal Brian Clifford is ongoing. Clifford resigned earlier this month and has accepted another principal's position in Glasgow.

He said there have been fewer than 10 applications for the position and site-based decision making council members are developing criteria they are looking for in a new leader.

Cook said a survey has been posted on the TCES website at www.taylor.kyschools.us for parents to complete. He said parents have also received a phone call about providing their input.

"I think we'll get a really good candidate," he said. "I want to make a good, careful decision."

Cook said he has received several phone calls from people who have said they want to be a part of the Taylor County School District because of its innovation.

He said he realizes it could be difficult finding a candidate willing to go from a school of 400 students to 1,250, the largest elementary population in the state.

"For the same or less money," he said. "It will be a hard sale."

"I feel very confident that we'll find a good person. If not, we'll appoint an interim and look again."

Cook said he would like to have a replacement for Clifford named by July 1.

The TCES site-based decision making council met on Friday afternoon to review the results from principal surveys, develop interview questions and screen applicants.

Text change states when Rate GS deposit may be waived in conjunction with taking service under Rate RS.

Although KU is not proposing to change the text of its Fuel Adjustment Clause ("FAC"), other than the correction of a minor typographical error in Paragraph (3), it is proposing to recover certain costs through the FAC to ensure that the correct amounts are collected through base rates and the FAC.

Durham said the Board is excited about having Strong-Porter move up to Curry's position. Since she already works for GRM, he said, she knows how the operation works and what to expect from the position.

"She's experienced the pressure," he said. "It's a quick learning curve for her."

"She's got lots of energy." Durham said the Board is sad to see Curry leave GRM. She became involved with GRM when it was just an idea, he said.

She had no experience in social work but had a love for helping people.

"She's been there from the first nail driven," he said. "We're excited for her and what God's gonna want her to do."

Curry, who lives in Greensburg, got involved with GRM in 2006 when attending a meeting to fill in for a Campbellsville University professor. Curry received bachelor's and master's degrees in social work from CU.

"It was completely a God thing," she said. "[I] had always had a heart for the homeless."

Curry said her job includes administrative work, grant writing, managing the many who volunteer at GRM and a number of duties in between.

"Whatever needs to be done, I get it done," she said.

And it's the many duties and pressure of running GRM that Curry says have weighed on her.

"My heart has been heavy for a while," she said. "It's been a lot for me."

"Being responsible for everything and having such a passion for it has been very draining," she said.

Curry has already begun working at her new job doing some training one day a week. She will work in case management at a private counseling agency. She said she is excited about continuing to serve people but in a different capacity. Curry will work with children and families who are experiencing behavioral issues.

"To have an impact in children's lives is a pretty big deal," she said. "[A new co-worker] said, 'You're gonna get to see kids blossom.' That just fills my heart."

And though Curry is leaving GRM, she said she still believes in its mission and has a passion for it.

"I still love it," she said. "I love it dearly. I've had a lot of pride in it."

Curry said she feels blessed to have helped GRM get off the ground.

"I grew with it," she said. "And I realize that the Board took a chance."

"It's truly been blood, sweat and tears."

Curry said the most rewarding part of her time at GRM has been seeing people who were once homeless get jobs and become successful.

"The ones that do have that success story, it means so much," she said.

Curry said she remembers one client whose family had kicked him out of their home with nothing.

"He had nowhere to go," she said. "No job. No car. No house."

The man now volunteers at GRM from time to time.

"He's happy to give back," she said. "To me, that's success."

Curry said about 60 people are housed at the homeless shelter each year. She said some still say they didn't know that Taylor County had a homeless shelter. Some communities, she said, would be resistant of such a shelter. Larger cities like Elizabethtown, she said, don't have a shelter. And Curry said Taylor County residents support GRM in more ways than volunteering. Residents also chip in to help GRM help others.

"Even though the economy is where it's at," she said. "So we consider that a huge blessing."

Strong-Porter, of Campbellsville, is a social work major at Campbellsville University. She expects to graduate in May.

Strong-Porter came to GRM after seeing an advertisement for an AmeriCorps worker. She said she spends her time helping people find shelter. And helping people is nothing unusual for Strong-Porter.

She has served as a legal secretary in California, the first black police officer in Campbellsville and an assistant to a school superintendent at Campbellsville School System.

"I got to serve people and try to help them out with different situations," she said, whether it was in the classroom or on the streets of Campbellsville.

"It is rewarding," she said.

Strong-Porter said she felt led to apply for Curry's position, even though she was reluctant to answer the call.

"[I said], 'Lord, whatever is your will is what I want to do.'"

Strong-Porter said she sees her new position as a great opportunity to continue helping people.

When first applying at GRM, Strong-Porter said she remembers telling Curry, "I know my purpose. I'm supposed to be here."

Strong-Porter said the workers and volunteers are GRM are truly a team.

Durham said he doesn't anticipate any changes to the services GRM offers when Strong-Porter takes over.

And even though GRM has been in operation for several years now, Durham said, there are still people who don't know there is a homeless shelter or even homeless people in Taylor County.

"We continue to strive to get the message out."

Pajama Party!

Campbellsville Postmaster Anthony Kush knows the importance of safety in the mail industry.

"We actively look for safety issues," said Kush. "We only back up at approved zones, we ride the routes with our drivers to spot potential concerns, and lots of things like that. Richard is outstanding," he said. "He pays close attention to detail and knows his customers by name. He knows his route."

Schuhmann knows that at any time, things can occur that you don't expect. "I've been able to survive out on the road for 30 years, five days a week with no accidents," he said. "But you are tempting fate putting those kind of miles in on the road without an accident. My route is 72 miles, 640 boxes long. I've been blessed with a good guardian angel."
